

39th Annual Artists' Week Workshop

Sea View Inn, Pawleys Island, South Carolina, Friday April 21 - April 28, 2017, Instructor Betty Brown

It's time to put the Artists' Week Workshop at Sea View Inn on your calendar. The annual workshop continues its 39th year of combining great painting locations with gorgeous spring weather. The charming shabby chic inn serves three meals a day of low country cooking by Myrtle and Vertrella, adding to the ambience of a most enjoyable workshop. Artists' Week began in 1978. Betty Brown first studied there under Alex Powers and became instructor for Artists' Week in 2002, turning another page in the history of celebrating art at Sea View Inn.

Betty takes the artists to a new location each day, having scouted out delightful spots for plein air painting at area plantations, Brookgreen Gardens, and historic cottages on the island. The week is informal and relaxed. Students are encouraged to do as much or as little as they desire. The groups are small enough to get individual attention. All levels are welcome as long as you feel comfortable painting outside. If not, you can work on your own at the inn, or avail yourself of her instruction that focuses on the principles of design, color, and "learning to see." Her teaching is geared toward helping individual painters find a positive attitude and direction in their unique approaches. Betty discourages a competitive atmosphere and provides encouragement for the students' goals toward excellence. Betty will work or demonstrate in watercolor, but she is capable of helping in the media of your choice. The group winds down by discussing each day's paintings. Evenings can be spent watching videos or slides of other artists' work. We also reserve a time for painting the wait staff/models.

ABOUT THE ARTIST: Betty Brown's work has been exhibited internationally, including the American Watercolor Society Exhibition. Her paintings are in the permanent collection of the Cameron Art Museum as well as corporate and private collections. Brown began her professional career in 1975, and has studied under many nationally recognized teachers. She holds degrees from Queens University in Charlotte, North Carolina, and the University of North Carolina at Wilmington where she graduated with honors in Art. She is a member of several professional organizations and is a Program Grant recipient. Painting trips to Europe and across the United States have provided a focus on the landscape, even though the figure has long been a captivating challenge. Betty is also interested in Book Art and writing. She has extensive teaching experience at the Cameron Museum School, workshops at John C. Campbell Folk School, regional workshops, and with private students. Current work can be seen at New Elements Gallery in Wilmington, NC.
